Ronnie Anderson's stock RZR RS1 was superior in the competitive landscape and secured first place in the Pro

Stock course, Pro Stock Desert and Pro Stock World Finals classes. RJ Anderson's near stock RZR XP Turbo S dominated the field in the Pro Turbo Desert and Pro Turbo World Finals, and secured second in Pro Turbo Short course. Teammate Nelson's stock RZR RS1 outperformed his class, clinching a first-place finish in the 1000 Stock Short course, 1000 Stock Desert and 1000 Stock World Finals classes.

"The Polaris RZR Factory Racing Team has relentlessly shown success this race season, and the WORCS World Finals solidified the dominance of this team," said Kyle Duea, vice president of ORV Marketing at Polaris Industries. "It has been a privilege to watch the team compete and win, and we are looking forward to support their continued success during the 2019 race season.”

Rounding out the calendar 2018 racing series, Polaris Factory Racing combined for 48 wins and 113 podiums.
